The CASA Organization

CASA stands for “Court Appointed Special Advocate”, the official name for a volunteer who speaks up for a child’s best interest. Volunteers are trained to become advocates for children and make recommendations to the judge and Court. The Volunteer meets with the child on a regular basis, perhaps at school, or in a foster home, or wherever the child is currently Living

Delaware County CASA

Delaware County CASA is comprised of approximately 70 volunteers who serve as the eyes and ears of the court. Our CASA Volunteer participate in more than 30 hours of training so they can responsibly advocate for what is in the best interest of each abused and neglected child who is removed from their home. The volunteer will talk with the child, family, social workers, teachers, and medical providers who know the child.

Donations to CASA

With your support, the Delaware County CASA Program can ensure the children we serve have the support they need and our Volunteers have the training, support, and recognition they deserve as they serve on the front lines fighting for children entangled in the child welfare system.

Where Does the Money Go?

Your tax deductible gift to the Delaware County CASA Advisory Board (a 501c3 non-profit organization) will help to make sure our children have the advocates they deserve. Not one dollar of any money raised will go towards administrative or personnel costs of the program.
